SUMMARY

Experienced operations, production and project management professional with more than 20 years of experience across account management, customer service, operations, project delivery and digital content production.

Most recently responsible for helping manage large-scale content, production and community projects within the digital media industry. Over the last four years I have worked directly alongside YouTube creators and online communities, helping plan, organise and deliver projects viewed by millions of people worldwide.

My experience spans project management, production operations, workflow design, contributor management, technical infrastructure, community operations, documentation, quality assurance and content delivery. I have coordinated projects ranging from small specialist teams through to large community-led initiatives involving hundreds of participants and events involving over 2,500 invited users.

Known for bringing structure to complex projects, improving workflows, solving problems and helping people deliver successful outcomes. Comfortable working independently, leading teams, managing contributors and supporting projects from concept through to completion.
